Igor Djurdjevic joins the Executive Board of Incore Bank AG

Schlieren, February 17, 2026: Swiss tech bank Incore Bank AG has appointed Igor Djurdjevic as Head of Corporate Services on the Executive Board, effective February 1, 2026. He joins the management team as its fourth member and will be responsible for risk control, compliance, finance, and legal affairs.

Igor Djurdjevic succeeds René Hertach, who built up the Corporate Services division and retired at the end of January 2026.

Djurdjevic brings many years of management experience in Risk Control and Compliance at several Swiss private banks. Most recently, he held a senior position at Bergos Privatbank. He holds a Master's degree in Finance from the University of Zurich.

In his new role, Djurdjevic will assume strategic responsibility for the Corporate Services functions. A key focus will be the consistent implementation of regulatory requirements and the further development of efficient and compliant financial and control processes.

Mark Dambacher, CEO of Incore Bank AG, commented on the appointment:

"In Igor Djurdjevic, we are gaining a proven expert with in-depth experience in the regulatory environment. His professional expertise and understanding of our clients' needs will provide targeted support for the sustainable development of Incore Bank."

Igor Djurdjevic added:

"I look forward to supporting Incore Bank AG during its next phase of development. My focus is on stable, efficient, and regulatory-compliant processes as the foundation for sustainable growth."

By strengthening its management team, Incore Bank AG reinforces its leadership structure and underscores its commitment to high regulatory standards and responsible corporate governance.
